COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN OFFICER'S OFFICE

Anyone hunting pheasants on or after Oct. 3, must have a special stamp in their possession. These are available for $1.00 at the Town Office.

We have communicated with the railroad relative to automatic signals on the so-called Ferry Road crossing in West Bethel. It is the intent of the selectmen to lay the groundwork this fall for the necessary articles to be inserted in the warrant of the next annual town meeting. As yet, we do not know if the railroad will participate in the cost of the signals or who must pay for the maintenance of them. The last estimate we had was approximately $12,000 installation cost and $700 per year for maintenance. We must also obtain a right of way from the railroad to officially connect the old Rte. 2 to the Ferry Road crossing. The road that is presently used was never accepted by the town.

Sewer users will be billed in October for one quarter's use and again in January for 1973. Next year they will be billed each quarter.

LABELS FOR EDUCATION

The elementary schools of M. S. A. D. 44 will be starting a special collection drive aimed at obtaining needed audio-visual equipment. The program, "Labels for Education" is sponsored by the Campbell Soup Company and offered only to elementary schools, both public and private.

Between now and Dec. 8, it is hoped to get enough Campbell Soup labels to get tape recorders, phonographs, filmstrip and slide projectors selected by the individual school principals.

All elementary schools in the District will be participating. Send the labels to the school of your choice. Labels brought to Woodstock will be used for that school only. Labels sent to Locke Mills School will be used for Locke Mills school only. The same will be done at Andover, Crescent Park (including Newry) and Elsie Bibebe.

Arrangements are being made for central location collection points in each town and at Telstar.

Any Campbell soup can label (reg. ulnar, 20 oz. size, 50 oz. size or Chunky soup) counts in the drive. More than 70 audio-visual equipment items are being offered. Each Soap Box racing time comes again to West Paris on Sept. 23. The youngsters of this area take their grooves powered machines to the top of Derby Hill and compete against each other for trophies and the prestige of winning.

If you have a youngster who would like to join in the racing game, all he has to do is pick up an application blank. They are available from the following people and businesses: David Roca, Leon Baker, Roger Hickey, Ruth Hickey, Betty McAlister and Fern Bran, also West Paris 1st Co. FAIRCHILD ENGINEERS TO DO GRADUATE WORK AT UMO

Engineers at the Fairchild Semi-conductor plant in South Portland will get a chance to take graduate work in electrical engineering, thanks to an agreement made between the company and the University of Maine at Orono. Fairchild engineers with a bachelor's degree may earn a master's degree in electrical engineering while doing their class work right at the plant. Classes will be held at the plant with visiting professors from the Orono campus and will also be held via closed circuit television. The company will pay the bulk of the tuition costs and related fees and will give employees one full semester off with pay to attend classes at Orono.

THE TRUTH THAT HEALS
A Christian Science radio series

Hoc Committee emphasizes the need to include all portions or parts of the entire school district as one integral unit.

2. The task of the Committee is to provide the Board of Directors with help and guidance presented in the form of recommendations in determining long range (5 years) capital needs supported by significant data developed either by the Committee itself or Educational consultants approved upon recommendation to the Board of Directors.

3. To consider whether or not a program of Educational requirements for K-6 ought to be developed and if so, to make recommendations concerning how such requirements may be compiled and upon the Board authorization to proceed with the development of such a program of Educational requirements for M. S. A. D. #44—K-6.

4. Furthermore, the Committee shall be charged with the responsibility of reviewing a document prepared by James W. Sewall Company, Old Town, Maine, under date of March 1967 Preliminary School Study Land Use Plan for Bethel, Maine determining how that Study can best be updated and expanded to cover the entire school district and to make recommendations to the Board in this regard.

5. This committee shall review the program of Educational requirements for the new Junior and Senior High School of M. S. A. D. #44, Andover, Bethel, Greenwood, Newry and Woodstock dated December 1965 prepared by Englehardt, Englehardt & Leggett, Educational Consultants to determine whether or not there still exists deficiency at Telstar in plant and facilities to meet the program of Educational requirements and to make recommendations to the Board regarding the same.

6. And finally, using the data on school plant, enrollment, survival factors, and birth rate, with projected enrollments, and estimated classroom needs—in conjunction with any program of Educational requirements developed for K-6, make such recommendation to the Board as in the considered opinion of the Committee are needs that should be met within the next five years.

All the foregoing to be accomplished not later than the first day of March 1974, at which point the Committee shall be disbanded and thanked for its labors.

The directors approved the installation of a hydrant on district property at the Andover Elementary School at no expense to the district. The primary purpose of the hydrant will be its use by the Andover Recreation Committee to flood a skating rink.

The Mothers Club held its first meeting of the year Monday, Sept. 10 at the home of Mrs. Peggy Wight. Officers for the coming year are President, Mrs. Nancy Wight; Vice President, Brenda Bartholomew; Secretary, Peggy Wight, and Treasurer, Juanita Korhonen. It was decided to donate $25 to the Telstar Girls Athletic Association. Also $25 to the Newry Church Finance Fund.

A committee was chosen to tabulate and put together a cook book of our members' favorite recipes. It was voted on and stipulated that each member has to attend four meetings during the year in order to receive her share of the supper money, otherwise she will receive the dues she has paid in back, and be welcome to attend the banquet by paying her own way. A tasting party consisting of each members favorite dish completed the evening.

A 12-year-old cat was pushed into the road by a dog just as a camper trailer came along and he went between the front and rear wheels killing him instantly. He will be missed as he was a good hunter. That leaves us with one that is 12

Home canners of all types of food, increasing this year because of high food prices and predicted shortages, need to be wary of the dangers of botulism poisoning. Miss Nellie Gushue, University of Maine at Orono nutrition specialist has stated:

A boiling water bath, one of the most popular methods, is fine for fruits, tomatoes, rhubarb, sauerkraut and pickles. Miss Gushue said, but can not be used for meats and vegetables which should be prepared in a pressure canner.

"The toxin will not be produced in acid, present in fruits and pickles," Miss Gushue said, "but the 212 degree temperature of boiling water is not high enough to destroy the toxin producing spores in non-acidic meats and vegetables."

FARMERS ADVISED TO PLAN NOW FOR NEXT YEAR

Even though farmers haven't finished harvesting and marketing this year's crops in Oxford County, it's not too soon for them to begin planning how to sell the things they'll raise next season, a farm official points out.

"This is especially true if producers want to consider new marketing methods not locally available and discuss them with those in the trade with whom they normally deal," says Beverly Dean, Oxford County Executive Director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

There are several forward marketing methods by which farmers can fix their per unit prices for 1974 crops, either now or at a later date when the market looks best to them, the county executive director said.

Government loans on commodities will continue to be available to farmers who need them for financing. Mrs. Dean pointed out. However, in most other ways the government's influence on production and marketing of agricultural commodities has been eliminated for the first time in years.

"This means more attention to marketing by farmers, and both the trade and government are attempting to provide producers with information on ways to lock in profits through forward pricing," the county executive said.

She pointed out that the county ASCS office has available reprints of several magazine articles telling about marketing methods being used by producers in various parts of the country. These are offered as background information so that farmers who are interested in different marketing techniques can see what is being done elsewhere, the county executive director added.

Bulletins, giving recommended methods for canning and preserving fruits, vegetables and meats may be obtained from local Cooperative Extension Offices.

GREENWOOD CITY

— Mrs. Collette Morgan, Corres. —
Now on our countryside, Nature paints her canvas with familiar scenes of the harvest. In September

All the flowers of the garden
Are as bright as in July,
And September laughs at summer
As her golden days pass by.
Even roses lend their fragrance
To September's sweet bouquet,
And gay marigolds and dahlias
Mark her dancing gypsy way.
Yellow pumpkins, tapered carrots,
Set the roadside stands aflame;
Fruits of harvest add their merit
To September's lovely name.
This is nature's grand convention
This her final glorious fling!
Her last bid for full attention,
Her last chance to bloom and sing.
Here is something to remember
When youth's summer turns to fruit....
Life gives each its warm September
As a full rich substitute.
Myra P. Ellis
In my garden this week I have separated roots and bulbs for very soon there will be frosty asters. Autumn's call is loud and stirring. Time is fleeting and the intriguing hues of scarlet will soon mingle with the brown and gold.

Twice this week I have climbed to the birches on Noyes Mountain. Tall and beautiful they stood against the sky; swaying to a gentle rhythm as breezes passed through.

I sat and listened to the falling of the acorns from a big oak near by. The birches were like giant candles glowing brightly straight and slim as they thrust their heads to the clouds.

A few bird calls came trembling on a tiny thread from out the hemlocks at the right. Here I gathered tiny cones to take home to use later.

The earth was clean and fragrant. A cricket from somewhere out in the distance fiddled his merry tune accompanied by the Uncle of water laughing among the ferns. Here in May I heard the songs of the mating birds and saw flowers by the way. In mid-summer I found shade here during a long afternoon. Now those days are no more and the sun has swung to the south west in the blue sky on the open horizon just beyond. Not only with eye; but the mind stretches to see this horizon through each season and realizes the span of beauty around, the same but ever new.

As I approached home the view was different but four big elms had been removed from in back of the house a few days before.

"For years that measure centuries these elms have grown beside the river. And heard the passing waters laugh."

As to the sea they flowed forever. And when the toll of day was done And darkness fell among the trees, The stars were clustered in the tops. As jewels in a crown of leaves. So passes more monarchs of the ages. A fat little, jolly young cloudlet went skipping across the sky. I wondered if his pockets were bulging with dew-drops. But, no, for later slowly and silently the moon walked the crisp breezeless night among the stars.

There were lingering shadows above the garden and the ducks disputed off shore, gliding peacefully along.

At four o'clock the next morning the orange-yellow moon in the west came peeping through my bedroom window. It was so lovely that I got up to go to the kitchen to view it across the pond. In a moment, at one place in the water it seemed to boil in diamonds then a pointed triangle moved in my direction through a spread of dark velvet blanket. Drawing this veil of diamonds brilliant with sparkles, shoreward; it disappeared in a bank of ferns. One can never imagine gems in a setting so rare unless he has seen them as I did; made by three common things... moon-glow, water, er, and a muskrat. It was truly a scene of real enchantment. Autumn had dropped her veil of beauty at my window and I was glad that I had come to see.

The new bridge across the Sanborn River on the Patch Mountain Road is being built.

David Holt, U. M. O., was at home for the week end. He had as guests his roommate and another friend, Doris Hayes, local, and Lettie Brooks, West Paris, have visited with Colista Morgan this week.

Ann Holt visited her friend, Nancy Hutton, Waterville, on the week end.

Mrs. Walter Biron, West Peru, is visiting Mrs. Frank Curtis for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mundt, Bethel, were callers Sunday, at Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Morgan's.

Dorothy Curtis spent a few days last week with Audrey Biron in West Peru.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Millett and Vesta Nelson went to the Globe shopping Sunday.

Fuel Conservation Starts In The Home

The heating and cooling of buildings requires about one sixth of the total energy expended in the United States. Much of this energy is wasted because buildings are so poorly insulated that heat is lost in winter and air conditioning equipment runs overtime in summer. This applies to most older homes and commercial buildings, and surprisingly, occurs in many new structures as well, the researchers find.

Heated energy may cost the nation as much as two billion dollars annually.

Insulation specialists at the Construction Products Division of W.R. Grace & Co., Cambridge, Massachusetts — one of the nation's largest producers of insulating materials — point out that such things as better home insulation, storm windows and more efficient heating and cooling units can greatly reduce fuel costs. Savings can amount to over $100 a year in the average size home.

It is estimated 60% of homes 15 years old or older have no insulation at all and nearly all homes are inadequately insulated by today's standards.

As with almost everything else, fuel costs for the consumer have been rising and are expected to continue in the future. Fuel economists predict that the price for gas, electricity and heating oil will increase at an annual average rate of about eight per cent. At this rate, fuel prices will double in ten years.

Here are some recommendations from the W.R. Grace specialists on how consumers can lower fuel and air conditioning costs and at the same time do their bit to cut down on air pollution.

- Use weather stripping, wherever necessary.
- Make sure your house is

Here are four ways the experts say homeowners can cut fuel bills efficiently. 1. Use weather stripping wherever necessary. 2. Make sure your house is well caulked around windows, doors, etc.—anywhere "air leakage" can occur. 3. Insulate the attic floor. This can save up to $100 in yearly fuel bills. 4. Run air conditioners at a comfortable level — don't "over-cool", well caulked. (Heat loss from "air leakage" can easily account for 15-20% of a family's heating bill.)

• Check insulation. Attics should have a six inch layer of good insulation, and walls three and one-half inches. Floors located over "crawl spaces" also need three and one-half inches.

Most homeowners can easily add insulation to attic floors. Zonolite® vermiculite is one type of granular insulation that readily pours right over existing insulation. It fills in any gaps.

Insulation of sidewalls usually requires the services of a professional. Proper insulation can cut at-lie heat loss as much as 90%.

• If you live in a cold climate, installing storm windows can cut window heat loss in half. They also eliminate cold "drafts" and condensation on windows.

• Run air conditioners only at a comfortable level — don't "overcool". Insulation here can help, too, by keeping warm air out. The efficiency of the air conditioning equipment increases and operating costs go down.

The researchers say solar energy is perhaps 25 years in the future. In the meantime, they suggest we should do what we can to conserve conventional energy... and, in the process, save some money.

Add a little music to your life.

So when you buy one or both you'll not only bring a little music into your life, you'll also help a group of Maine people who deserve all the support and understanding we can give them.

Drop by our bank tomorrow and pick up your order form. And while you're here, take a look at both the sample suet feeder and seed feeder you'll find on display. When you do, we're pretty sure you'll agree, buying one is a sound investment for a lot of good reasons.
